Botched Ink Brow Removal Treatment

Botched Ink® is a gentle yet concentrated hypertonic saline tattoo removal solution. When it's implanted into skin the area dries out. If the skin contains tattoo pigment this will dry out too, lifting and removing the pigment during the skins natural healing process

Course of treatments: Any kind of tattoo removal is a process, it's worth mentally and financially committing to a course of 3 treatments, this helps us to assess how easily the pigment is removing from your skin.

- Most clients see improvements after 2 or 3 sessions
- Initially the pigment may look darker before it gets lighter
- pigment that sits deep in the skin comes up to the surface
- This makes removal easier in further sessions

For some clients the goal is complete removal, other clients are looking to lighten their existing enhancement so the area can be re-treated. During the removal process we will be assessing and responding to the pigment, how deep it sits in the skin, is the area saturated with pigment and skin stain (the russet, lilac and warm colours) from years of top ups. The fresher the tattoo, the easier it is to remove

Price £75 per session
